and are in line with those seen in other countries hit hard by the coronavirus.

India's economy may have contracted by as much as a fourth in the June quarter because of the Covid-19 pandemic and the lockdown that ensued, according to a poll of 11 economists conducted by ET.

They warned that a recovery may take a while as the virus spreads and infection numbers rise, prompting further localised closures. Their contraction estimates ranged from 13.6% to 25.7%

The coronavirus pandemic has been devastating for foreign workers. In many countries, the living conditions of migrant labour have made this cohort especially vulnerable to the pathogen: Even in famously fastidious Singapore, where authorities acted aggressively to contain the outbreak, new cases were emerging from dormitories for migrant workers long after the city-state had eased lockdown restrictions.

Coronavirus impact: Fine for not wearing mask raised to Rs 500 in Gujarat

Except for some parts of the state like the municipal limits of Ahmedabad and Surat, the government had earlier fixed Rs 200 as fine for not wearing face mask. This will be increased to Rs 500 starting August 1, the release said.

Covid-19

Rural India is incapable of absorbing the estimated 23 million interstate and intrastate migrant labour who might return home from urban areas due to the Covid-19 lockdown. This is because the rural economy is already overburdened, excessively dependent on agriculture, and has widespread hidden underemployment, data show.
